Rector's Reflection

A high point for me in the 1990s was sitting down on a Saturday night to watch Gladiators. It was so good!

People taking on the UK beefiest body builders in a variety of physical pursuits and challenges. “Who’s afraid of the big bad wolf?” and “another one bites the dust.” It was great viewing and the BBC agreed, because this year they brought it back, with a new cast of impossibly muscular gladiators. They brought it back!

Something that was impressive from the past and they brought it back to life. How good is that.

And do you know what... the Gladiators reboot...it was OK...but it wasn’t the same as it was when I was watching it for the first time. It turns out, you cannot really ever go back. You can only go forward.

When Jesus is raised from the dead it is not a reboot. It is not the disappointing remake or a cover version. The stone was rolled away and the world was never the same. The empty tomb changed the course of human history. The resurrection tells us that the only way to go is forward.

The disciples understood this. They didn’t try to recreate Jesus’ ministry from the time before he died. Their worlds had been forever changed and turned upside down.

Jesus has crushed the vipers head; he destroyed the giant of death. His resurrection was more explosive than dynamite, he proved himself harder to destroy than diamonds. He is the sabre of the world. The fire and fury of hell could not contain him. He came back to life, with a body made of flesh.

Not a phantom or a figment of the first disciples’ imagination; but the resurrected Christ. They saw the steel in his eyes when he commissioned them to go into the world and tell his story. It is not a myth or a legend. It is human history; discovered in the Word of God.

So, what does this mean for us today? It means that the resurrection of Jesus can change your life. If you know in your bones that there is more to life than this material world or if you have the tiniest curiosity about getting to understand and know Jesus, then let today be the first day of the rest of your life. Get in touch and we can have a chat.

words in bold are Gladiator names in the 2024 series.*

Let's meet . . . Clare Wheeler

The Home Bird has had a good first year in business. Run by Clare, all her range, apart from the Fairtrade items, is British and many locally sourced. She sells vintage wares, soft furnishings, stationery, and greeting cards. Past employment includes painting and decorating with her father. She also used to run a shop in Newman's Yard and went on to have two shops in Holt. After a number of years, the shops had 'had their time' and others had stepped into a similar market and she decided to close. She was not looking to have another shop, but when the premises in Upper Market became vacant, she was tempted, especially due to the building and its layout. She said local people support her venture as do holidaymakers. The Thursford Spectacular and the Parish Church Christmas Tree Festival in November/December also attract customers. Claire and her husband Steve live in Mileham. They have a 13-year-old Staffordshire terrier, Buster, who always comes to the shop with her and loves greeting customers. They have lived in Norfolk for 22 years. She also works part-time at Waitrose.

What is the most underrated thing about Fakenham?

Its atmosphere and it being a real people town.

And the worse thing?

The closure of shops and businesses.

Is there something you would change about yourself?

I do too much and need to step back. Sometimes I don't have enough breathing space and need to pace myself.

Your pet hate?

Roadside litter which ruins the countryside.

Who has been a big influence in your life?

My husband of twenty-seven years, Steve. He is always positive and encouraging. Whenever I think of doing something new, he always encourages me to try it out.

Your biggest decision on the spur of the moment?

We rescued a Staffordshire bull terrier, but she was awful with other dogs and cats. So, we bought a three-acre field to keep her – and everything else – safe!

Your greatest strength?

I'm well organised, most of the time.

And weakness?

I never have a list but it can lead to me forgetting something.

Your greatest asset?

Having a good family and lovely friends that I can always talk to.

Your earliest memory?

I was about 8 years old and my paternal grandparents lived on the Isle of Wight. My father used to take me over on the ferry and I just loved spending time there with them, especially on the beach.

Have you ever been grateful for the kindness of a stranger?

Once at night, in the car, in heavy snow, and way before mobile phones, I got wedged in between two banks and couldn't move. Two guys in a van stopped and helped me get out. I was so grateful.

Do you have a religious faith?

No, but I believe there is something more, even though I don't follow a religion. I always feel something/someone is watching over me.

What would you buy on impulse?

Cars. My husband once asked me to pick up a car from a showroom and I came back with a much sportier version. He was OK about it though.

What concerns you about modern life?

What the future might hold. I worry for today's young people.

How would Steve describe you?

'You are driven, you are straight and true, you love working, but most of all you are loving. (Steve happened to ring at this very moment!)

And your reaction to those words?

Steve and I have completed each other. Neither of us thought we would marry, but we did.

What do you no longer worry about?

What other people think.

Who do you admire?

Those whose business is animal rescue. I don't think I could do it, but it's so necessary.

If you hadn't gone into the retail trade, what else might you have done?

I'd have worked with animals. It's just a different path, but not a regret.

What do you like best about your work?

I get a buzz from my business, but I specifically like buying, displaying and giving other people pleasure. The shop is my happy place.

Do you have any family help with the business?

My mother works in the shop to help out, and my father, who is a retired joiner, restores and repairs things before they are sold.

What did you learn from your parents?

They always said 'do your best' but never asked for achievements.

Your luxury on a desert island?

A radio.

Where would you like to go that you haven't been?

An atoll in the Maldives, but I also have a yearning for San Francisco.

What lessons has life taught you?

That you should live your life for yourself and not be too influenced by others.

Town Talk by Wayfarer

Not for the first time I enjoyed a walk along the old railway line that used to connect us with Lynn. As you may know it starts just opposite the Garden Centre across the bypass. More by luck than judgement, the day was bright and sunny with no rain in prospect. Happily, the path was dry, though the adjacent woods and fields had collected lots of watery pools. There was plenty of white blossom on the trees by the path with the occasional furze bush bright with yellow flowers. Strolling along I had the place to myself - my preference to be honest - with just the landscape and bird song for inspiration. I loved the sound of the chaffinches that reminded me of my junior school teacher who first taught me to recognise their call. Once learnt, never forgotten. The chiffchaffs were around, though their 'song' – if it can be called that – is more of a repetitive chant. As harbingers of summer, I'll take that. A distant sight of buzzards was welcome but a red kite, low overhead, more appealing. Such a beautiful bird, no longer a stranger to our region. After an hour or two the path came to a stop where the filled-in road bridge crossed it so I headed upwards, turned right and caught up with the Wensum, tracking alongside it to the Sculthorpe Mill pub. The river there was fast flowing. Years ago, people forded it at this point. Not any more. I stopped for a pint of locally-brewed beer, not that impressed by its price of just under a fiver and sat in the garden until Alison joined me. You didn't expect me to walk back home again, did you?

It's that time of year again when a group of litter picking die-hards sally forth to collect the litter and rubbish that has built up around our town over the last months – in this case over the last twelve months as the autumn litter pick had to be cancelled twice due to bad weather.

On the morning of 22nd March, 20 volunteers set off on their mission and three hours later your town was a significantly cleaner place – I do hope some of you have noticed!

It is significant that people who would never drop a single piece of litter in their lives are the very ones who are willing to give up their time to pick up other people's leavings. And my oh my, what leavings there are! We are a nation of snackers which is evidenced by the fact that most of the litter is created by the British propensity to eat and drink on the go. You would not believe how much this type of rubbish is to be found in the few hundred yards along Clipbush Lane from the Morrison roundabout to the bypass, all thrown from moving vehicles. Three of us each collected a large bag, just in this area. We live in hope that there will be less when we return in the autumn.

It is not just dropped litter but also fly tipping which pollutes our environment. In the hedgerow along the old Holt Road one of our pickers found no fewer than 9 large black bin bags stuffed with upholstery foam which could have been more simply and responsibly disposed of at the recycling centre.

And why do people go to the trouble to pick up their dog's poo, tie the bag neatly and then chuck it into the hedgerow? These indestructible little gifts are the bane of the litter picker's life. Not to mention clearing the 'party sites' of their bottles and cans.

Oh well, at least this year none of us came across the ultimate joy of litter picking which is a plastic bottle full of urine – happy days!

My thanks to Fakenham Racecourse, Rotary, Fakenham Town Council staff and of course to our intrepid pickers for looking after our town. See you again in six months!

Town Council viewpoint – Engaging the community

Fakenham is fortunate to be a proper community in an area where second homes and holiday lets abound. It follows that there are also lots of community groups here. The town council works hard to support lots of them. It could be by setting up the gazebo in the Marketplace on a Thursday for them to promote events or to provide information. At the end of March, councillors took their place on a Thursday morning to invite residents to fill in a Community Engagement questionnaire which will inform a broader engagement programme coming later this spring. Our thanks go to those who took time to share their views. Almost everyone commented on the loss of our banks, but regrettably, reopening them is not within the gift of the town council! So, please keep an eye out for publicity regarding the engagement programme, as it will be your opportunity to share your views. It will be on our website at:

www.fakenhamtowncouncil.gov.uk and available in paper form at the Connect building. We will also spend another morning in the Marketplace when, hopefully, the weather will be warmer than it was in March!

D-Day 80th anniversary update – 6th June event

In last month's issue of the Beacon, I promised an update of events and am delighted to let you know that soldiers from Robertson Barracks, home to 1st The Queen's Dragoon Guards, will be taking part in our commemorative event. The council is very grateful to them for supporting the town and bringing some military polish so please keep an eye out in the press and on our website for more details nearer the time. There will be lots of varied and interesting events to commemorate that day.

Angela Glynn – Chairman, Fakenham Town Council

The story of a hymn: Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty

Holy, Holy, Holy is a hymn about celebrating the Christian doctrine of the Trinity, which has its own day in the church calendar, held this year, on May 25th. The repeated word Holy, is to signify the three forms of God. God the Father, God the Son, and God the Holy Spirit. Its text is described as not initiating praise, but being rather an invitation to the singer, to 'join in an endless song.' Its writer, Reginald Heber, was the Anglican Bishop of Calcutta where he died in 1826, aged 43. He was a well-known poet and several of his works were set to music after his death and are still sung today. The hymn was inspired by Isaiah 6: 1-5 and Revelation 4:2-11. Heber didn't explain the Trinity, rather wrote the hymn to celebrate it and not undermine its mystery.

Interestingly, the melody was composed in 1826, by John Bacchus Dykes and it is referred to as 'Nicaea'. It is named after the Council of Nicaea, where, in the 4th Century, the Trinity and its meaning was 'theologically shaped'. (Hence, the Nicene Creed, also agreed upon in that Council) It is a good example of Victorian hymn melodies, with its solid harmonies and 'subtle chromaticism'.

Holy, holy, holy! Lord God Almighty!

Early in the morning our song shall rise to Thee;

Holy, holy, holy! merciful and mighty!

God in three Persons, blessed Trinity!

Fakenham and District Community Archive

This month's photograph from the Archive was taken in a hidden part of the town centre, Red Lion Court, behind the pub, and shows Maurice Peel being watched planting an apple tree. This area was once used for stabling and ferrying passengers to the railway stations in horse and cart and in the 50s it had a bowling green. The stables were demolished in 1979 to make way for building the bungalows. This photo was donated by Fakenham Town Council.

As chairman of the council Maurice Peel signed the charter twinning Fakenham with Olivet in France, opened the Gallow Sport Centre and from 1985 to 1991 served as the town's first mayor.

If you want to see more of the Archive, browse through lots of scrapbooks and see slides and videos of the town's history, just come along to one of our meetings, from
